

American Immigration Control Foundation

P.O. Box 525 Monterey, Virginia 24465

From the Office of the President
John Vinson

Dear Activist:

This Community Action Kit can help you inform and educate public opinion in your community about immigration issues.

Like a tool box, this kit contains the tools that anyone, regardless of political experience, can use for a variety of public education projects right from home.

You can choose to launch whatever type of project best suits your needs and interests within the time you have available for your project.

Whether you want to give a speech, write an article, organize a letter-writing campaign, distribute literature, or just write a letter to the editor of a local newspaper, the materials in this kit will help you accomplish your goal simply and efficiently.

The forces trying to prevent common sense discussion of immigration issues are rich and powerful. Left-wingers in politics, journalism, and academia have joined forces with wealthy corporate elites in pursuit of cheap labor to keep Americans in the dark about mass immigration.

But the American people desperately need information about the terrible effects uncontrolled immigration has on our country and its future.

That's why your grassroots educational activity is so important. Public opinion means little if it is not expressed and directed in an organized, focused effort.

Your task is to help inform and educate public opinion in your local area about the immigration issues facing our country. This valuable kit shows you how.

Right now volunteers just like you are using this same kit in communities all across the country. Working one-by-one and side-by-side in neighborhoods throughout America, we will be heard.

Good luck!

John Vinson
President
AIC Foundation